

Community Transcript:

It creates a sense of community.

And any student walking in the door is no longer feeling alone.

And on an island like they're the only one going through this struggle of trying to get their high school diploma.

It's now a group of people who are walking this together and supporting each other.

It seems like there's a sense of building community, even if you they may not see each other outside of tutoring, but they know that they have these people around them that are all striving to achieve the same thing.

We are here for you.

You're not alone.

And there's someone else to cheer you on and you'll find it with us.
